2000 Annual Survey of American Jewish Opinion

Introduction

The data reported here are from the 2000 Annual Survey of American Jewish Opinion, sponsored by the American Jewish Committee, detailing the views of American Jews about a broad range of subjects. Among the topics covered in the present survey are the Israel-Arab peace process, the attachment of American Jews to Israel, political and social issues in the United States, Jewish perceptions of anti-Semitism, Jewish opinion about various countries, and Jewish identity concerns. Some of the questions appearing in the survey are new; others are drawn from previous American Jewish Committee surveys, including the 1997, 1998, and 1999 Annual Surveys of American Jewish Opinion.

The 2000 survey was conducted for the American Jewish Committee by Market Facts, Inc., a leading survey-research organization. Respondents were interviewed by telephone during September 14-28, 2000; no interviewing took place on the Sabbath. The sample consisted of 1,010 self-identified Jewish respondents selected from the Market Facts consumer mail panel. The respondents are demographically representative of the United States adult Jewish population on a variety of measures. The margin of error for the sample as a whole is plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Forty-four percent of the respondents are men and 56 percent are women. Nineteen percent are under age 40, 43 percent are 40-59, and 37 percent are 60 and over. Seventy-seven percent are married and 23 percent are unmarried. Nineteen percent report their household incomes as under $30,000, 24 percent as $30,000-49,999, 24 percent as $50,000-74,999, and 33 percent as $75,000 and over. Fourteen percent have a high-school education or less, another 25 percent have attended some college, another 23 percent have four years of college, and another 37 percent have five or more years of higher education.

In terms of Jewish background, 10 percent of the respondents identify as Orthodox, 31 percent as Conservative, 31 percent as Reform, 2 percent as Reconstructionist, and 25 percent as "Just Jewish." Fifty-nine percent of the respondents belong to a synagogue or temple. Of married respondents, 85 percent have Jewish spouses. When asked "How important would you say being Jewish is in your own life?" Fifty-nine percent of the respondents say "very important," 33 percent "fairly important," and 8 percent "not very important."
